We are looking for Santa for the Christmas season!

Being Santa Claus is hard work. There will be children waiting for hours for the opportunity to visit Santa and tell him what they want for Christmas. You will need to listen to them, pose for photographs with them, and send them on their way. You will wear your big red suit, Santa hat and spectacles, while you smile and talk to the children.

As the children visit your grotto, you will ask them what they want for Christmas and if they've been good this year. Santa will be sat in his grotto all day surrounded by his elves for hundreds of children who come to visit him!

You will need to be prepared for any number of crazy questions like what's your favourite reindeer? How do you fit down my chimney and what if I don't have one? What happens if your sleigh breaks down? and how do you travel around the entire world in one night? You always have to be on your creative toes and be in character.

Ideally, Santa is going to physically look the part – a white beard, a hearty laugh, and a large tummy. Ultimately your job is to bring joy to children.

Some background in acting, drama or performing would be advantageous and being able to improvise and think on the spot – you never know what children might ask Santa for this year!

This role will be primarily weekends, and then every day from 21st to 24th December.

If you think you have what it takes to be Santa, please email your CV over with a covering letter to careers5@allthingswild.co.uk.
